2.- Opinión de los isleños respecto de distintas cuestiones de las islas.

A principios de abril varios miembros del gobierno local se manifestaron contrarios a la visita de familiares argentinos a las islas.

TIMOTHY BLAKE, Miembro del Consejo Legislativo, manifestó que el otorgamiento del permiso por parte del gobierno a un grupo de argentinos para visitar el cementerio de DARWIN era un inesperado cambio de mentalidad, ya que pocos días antes había establecido categóricamente que el gobierno argentino tendría que declarar formalmente el cese de hostilidades antes de permitir que se acercaran, los familiares argentinos, a las islas.

John CHEEK, también Miembro del Consejo Legislativo expresó: "no me preocupa tanto que los argentinos vengan, más me preocupa el cambio de pensar del gobierno británico, mi fe en ellos ha sufrido una pequeña caída".

La población en general compartiría estas opiniones, con el temor de que también se produzca un cambio de mentalidad por parte del gobierno sobre otros asuntos que involucren a la ARGENTINA. El señor SMITH, administrador del museo local manifestó, por ejemplo: "no quisiera ver nunca más a un argentino poniendo el pie sobre estas islas. Si ello ocurre sentiré que hemos sido traicionados por el gobierno británico. Permitir que se realice la visita es agregar un insulto a la injuria. Por qué tienen que venir si aún su gobierno no quiere declarar el fin de la guerra. El gobierno argentino no ha querido si quiera enterrar a sus muertos después de la lucha. Por supuesto, sería una actitud cristiana que los padres pudiesen ver el lugar donde cayeron, pero ninguno de nosotros le daría la bienvenida ya que la guerra existe oficialmente".

Así también, la señora MALCOM, señaló: "esta gente no debe ser autorizada a venir. Los recuerdos son aún muy dolorosos".

Finalmente, respecto al futuro de las islas el Consejero Terry PECK expresó que consideraba que el Ministerio de Defensa estaba convirtiendo a la otrora pacíficas islas en un campo de entrenamiento militar, asegurando tener evidencias para apoyar esta teoría. En este sentido el Departamento de Trabajos Públicos, estaría desconforme por el empleo del dinero otorgado para propósitos militares y no para obras civiles.

En relación con un eventual cambio de gobierno, el ex-Consejero Stewart WALLACE afirmó no tener dudas de que un Gobierno Laborista efectuaría tratativas con la ARGENTINA sobre el tema soberanía; si en cambio continuase en el poder el Conserva-

El laborismo británico eligió líder a Kinnock

En sustitución de Michael Foot, veterano líder considerado comandante del desastre electoral laborista, el congreso de ese partido británico eligió a Neil Kinnock, galés de 41 años, como nuevo jefe. El nuevo líder obtuvo más del 70 por ciento de los votos.

Agencia AP

Neil Kinnock pasea con su esposa por la playa, en Brighton, poco antes de ser electo.

BRIGHTON, Inglaterra (R-L). — El Partido Laborista británico, empeñado en recuperarse de su peor derrota electoral desde 1918, eligió hoy como líder al izquierdista Neil Kinnock, de 41 años, en sustitución del renunciante Michael Foot.

Kinnock, vocero laborista de Educación, se impuso abrumadoramente en la primera votación en un complejo colegio electoral al inicio de la conferencia anual del partido, en Brighton, ciudad costera del sur.

El nuevo líder obtuvo más del 70 por ciento de los votos. Su más cercano rival, Roy Hattersely, logró menos del 30 por ciento.

En un comunicado difundido tras la votación, Kinnock declaró: "Espero, confiado, conducir al laborismo al poder y a Gran Bretaña a la recuperación".

Sin embargo, reconoció que el movimiento laborista ya no contaba con el apoyo automático de los sufragantes que buscaban una alternativa ante el gobernante Partido Conservador.

Fuentes del laborismo revelaron que su prioridad inmediata sería tratar de unir a las escindidas alas izquierda y derecha del movimiento y esforzarse por recuperar el apoyo de millones de votantes que no respaldaron al partido en las elecciones general de junio último.

♦ Desarme: desacuerdos

Pero aún antes de que comenzase la conferencia, Kinnock y otras prominentes figuras del partido mantenían un serio desacuerdo sobre la cuestión clave de la controvertida política laborista en materia de defensa y desarme.

Fuentes partidarias dijeron que se produjo un cacao diciendo que los submarinos nucleares británicos Polaris debían ser incluidos en las conversaciones soviético-estadounidenses sobre control de armas que se llevan a cabo en Ginebra.

Asimismo abandonó el compromiso laborista de establecer una estrategia defensiva no nuclear dentro del plazo gubernamental de cinco años de un gobierno laborista, en cambio declaró que Gran Bretaña debía esforzarse por seguir esa estrategia.

Esa decisión significó un notable golpe de timón a la estrictamente unilateralista política laborista de desarme nuclear, considerada por muchos integrantes del movimiento como uno de los principales factores que provocaron la pérdida de apoyo en las elecciones.

Al abrir la conferencia de una semana de duración, el presidente del partido, Sam McLuskie, lanzó un llamado exhortando a la unidad en torno de la nueva conducción.

Afirmó que el laborismo había pasado demasiado tiempo mirando hacia adentro y advirtió a los dos mil delegados a la conferencia que "el pueblo británico no va a elegirnos nuevamente para ocupar el poder si continuamos dando la impresión de un partido desorganizado en el que nuestros líderes pasan todo el tiempo tomándose por el cuello unos a otros".

"No perdimos las elecciones por causa de nuestra política, las perdimos como consecuencia de nuestra falta de unidad, a raíz de cuatro años de luchas internas."

II. CARACTERISTICAS GENERALES Y PECULIARIDADES.

b) Su posición en la Política es el resultado de arduos y profundos esfurzos.

c) En OXFORD lleva una vida dedicada al estudio y la lectura. Sus autores favoritos BYRON, ELLIOTT y sobre todo KIPLING.

V. CONCLUSION

Orgullosa de su origen humilde, habitualmente, se descontrola en el medio ambiente político en el que actúa, asumiendo actitudes propias del fanático político y/o religioso, lo que supone una sobrevaloración de sí misma o sentimiento de ser invencible.

Su orgullo profesional, basado en la eficiencia demostrada en su vida y carrera profesional le ha permitido erigirse en la actualidad en la "Conductora" de un Imperio decadente y nostalgico.

Se considera que dadas las actuales circunstancins es posible que desoiga consejos, amenazas o directivas de algún otro sector político pudiendo llegar en su fanatismo a límitesimpredecibles, pero acordes a la parábola descendente que transita su país.

MARGARET THATCHER

EDAD:..... 57 años

ESTATURA:..... 1,64 metros

PESO:..... 56 Kgs (20 Jun 83)

APARIENCIA: Mujer de clase media alta, discretamente elegante y cuidadosa de su atuendo, y sobre todo de su peinado. Suele sonreir casi siempre, pero cuando pierde la sonrisa, su rostro se endurece y toda ella se convierte en una arma de ataque.

Se AUTODEFINE como: "Lo que soy y donde estoy es el resultado de un esfuerzo continuo y del coraje de dar en todas las ocasiones el paso siguiente".

Su Programa Gubernamental:

- Política interior

  - Objetivo primordial: controlar la inflación y proseguir bajando puntos

  - Privatización eficaz frente a socializaciones.
  - Lucha contra el paro (existen ya 3.5 millones de parados).
  - Mantener la política de un Estado de bienestar social, pero controlando los excesivos gastos de la Seguridad Social.
  - Promover la confianza de los inversores y facilitar la creciente inversión de capital extranjero.

- Política exterior

  - Fidelidad a los pactos adquiridos para la defensa occidental: OTAN y pacto con los EEUU.
  - Un gobierno estable en GB reforzará su peso en el concierto mundial.
  - Queremos dar un nuevo corazón a la alianza occidental y al mundo libre.
  - Respecto a los países de más allá del Telón de Acero: negociación desde la firmeza inequivoca de unas convicciones.
  - Sintesis: en un mundo peligroso e incierto, hemos elejido la fortaleza y la seguridad y a la vez hemos elegido la libertad.

MINISTRO DE DEFENSA: MICHAEL HESELTIN

De 49 años , quien se venía desempeñando como ministro de Medio Ambiente, quíen se ha vuelto célebre en GENA BRETANA por el rigor con el cual redujo los gastos de su ministerio.

Rico, enérgico y particularmente elocuente, HESELTIN es uno de los "ídolos" del partido conservador . Uno de sus colegas, al definirlo, dijo quetenía "las dos cualidades necesarias para el éxito político: la pasión y la vulgaridad".

EMBAJADOR INGLES EN URUGUAY: CHARLES WILLIAM WALLACE

Será uno de los hombres claves para las futuras relaciones de GRAN BRETANA con la ARGENTINA,

Es el hombre designado por la primera ministra para que desde la bién situada embajada en MONTEVIDEO observe la transición argentina hacia un gobierno civil.

CHARLES WILLIAM WALLACE está considerado como uno de los mayores especialistas en LATINOAMERICA del cuerpo diplomático británico y posee la condecoración de la orden del AGUILA AZTECA.

TA 12 Set 83

MINISTRO DE RELACIONES EXTERIORES, SIR GEOFFREY HOWE.

A pesar de su extrema discreción uno de los hombres clave de la política "tacheriana".

De origen galés, 57 años, realizó sus estudios en un colegio privado de WINCHESTER y en la Universidad de Cambridge, antes de convertirse en un destacado abogado.

Activo dentro del Partido Conservador, en el que ingresó cuando era estudiante universitario, Howe debió, sin embargo, esperar hasta 1964 para ser elejido diputado.

Al principio militó en el ala izquierda del Partido Conservador, pero más tarde revisó sus posiciones y se situó totalmente a la derecha, convirtiéndose en un crítico de los abusos morales de la "sociedad permisiva".

En 1972, el recién designado responsable del FOREIGN OFFICE fue nombrado consejero jurídido de la corona y caballero ("KNIGHT con tratamiento de Sir").

Partidario de MARGARET THATCHER desde el primer momento, se convirtió en 1975 en el principal vocero conservador para los asuntos económicos y ministro de Finanzas.

Eficaz, pero sin una personalidad marcada y a veces aburrido, sus adversarios lo acusan de ser simple instrumento de MARGARET THATCHER y un "tigre desdentado".

Indicio: Esta circunstancia es la que ha inducido a determinados observadores a estimar que la remoción elegante de PYM y su sustitución por un personaje neutro, podría constituir un indicio sobre la todavía secreta voluntad de la primera ministra de intentar una apertura hacia eventuales negociaciones en torno del problema de las Islas MALVINAS, tema sobre el cual PYM no podía, válidamente, tener una posición novedosa.

Táctica de reaproximación de Londres

LONDRES (ANSA). — El secretario de Relaciones Exteriores, sir Goeffrey Howe, agasajó ayer a los embajadores de los seis países bolivarianos y les expresó la intención del gobierno conservador de la primera ministra Margaret Thatcher de "reparar" las relaciones con América latina, y estrechar los vínculos comerciales.

"Como gobierno, estamos decididos a hacer todo lo que esté a nuestra alcance para mantener en buen nivel las relaciones y la amistad de que gozan nuestros países", dijo Howe a los embajadores de Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador, Panamá, Perú y Venezuela.

"Nuestra amistad sobrevivió a una dificultad recientemente, según lo demuestra la presencia de ustedes en esta oportunidad", añadió Howe en alusión al conflicto por las islas Malvinas y por el cual todavía tiene rotas las relaciones Inglaterra con la Argentina.

El almuerzo que ofreció Howe a los seis representantes sudamericanos es el primer acto diplomático de la nueva administración inglesa y es la apertura del programa de homenajes que se ha preparado en Londres para celebrar el 200 aniversario del nacimiento de Simón Bolívar.

Howe dijo que Bolívar fue un gran baluarte de la democracia y que Gran Bretaña siempre ayudó a expandir la democracia en todo el mundo.

"Pese a los estrechos lazos culturales y personales que Gran Bretaña tiene con los países de Bolívar, no estamos totalmente satisfechos con el intercambio comercial", enfatizó.

"Vuestros países —dijo— forman parte de un mercado en expansión pero los niveles de nuestro comercio no son satisfactorios, sobre todo en comparación con el que tuvimos en el pasado".

"Tenemos que redoblar nuestros esfuerzos para mejorar nuestro comercio. La industria británica es competitiva nuevamente y está lista para exportar, tenemos mucho que ofrecernos mutuamente, la voluntad política existe, espero que sea concretada por empresarios en ambos lados", sostuvo Howe al pormenorizar su inquietud.

La oficina de informaciones del gobierno inglés distribuyó una recopilación histórica sobre la vida de Bolívar y enumeró circunstancias en las cuales Gran Bretaña colaboró con el Libertador sudamericano.

Howe y el duque de Kent depositaron hoy una ofrenda floral ante el monumento a Simón Bolívar en la plaza Belgrave.
